Board's decision in respect of procedural or jurisdictional matters:

[1] The parties had no objection to the panel representing the Board as constituted to hear this complaint. No jurisdictional matters were raised at the outset of the hearing.

[2] On a point of procedure, both the Complainant and the Respondent requested that all evidence and argument presented at the hearing of file number 72465 on August 19, 2013, be carried forward to this hearing in relation to the second issue identified below. The Board agreed to the parties' request and proceeded to hear the merits of the complaint.

Property description:

[3] The subject property is a "B" quality retail building located at 1405 4 ST SW. It is situated in the Beltline District of the City's downtown core. The building has an assessed area of 13,288 square feet (sf) and the year of construction is 1964. It is situated on a 26,342 sf parcel of land.

Issues:

[4] This complaint involved two main issues:

- 1. Was the City correct in treating the subject property as vacant land to determine the assessed value of the property, or should the City have used the income approach to valuation?
- 2. If the determination of the first issue is no, and the City should have used the income approach to valuation, is the capitalization rate applied by the City in the income approach to valuation of stand alone retail properties in the Beltline District correct?

Complainant's requested value: $3,030,000

Board's decision: The Board confirms the assessment at $6,080,000.

Legislative authority, requirements and considerations:

[5] The Board's authority is found in the Municipal Government Act, and the associated Government of Alberta legislation and regulations. Within this framework the following provisions of the Act and the Matters Relating to Assessment and Taxation Regulation were considered by the Board to be of particular relevance.

Municipal Government Act

1(1)(n) "market value" means the amount that a property, as defined in section 284(1)(r), might be expected to realize if it is sold on the open market by a willing seller to a willing buyer;

289(2) Each assessment must reflect

(a) the characteristics and physical condition of the property on December 31 of the year prior to the year in which a tax is imposed under Part 10 in respect of the property, and (b) the valuation and other standards set out in the regulations for that property.

293(1) In preparing an assessment, the assessor must, in a fair and equitable manner, (a) apply the valuation and other standards set out in the regulations, and

(b) follow the procedures set out in the regulations.

(2) If there are no procedures set out in the regulations for preparing assessments, the assessor must take into consideration assessments of similar property in the same municipality in which the property that is being assessed is located.

467(1) An assessment review board may, with respect to any matter referred to in section 460(5), make a change to an assessment roll or tax roll or decide that no change is required.

(3) An assessment review board must not alter any assessment that is fair and equitable, taking into consideration

(a) the valuation and other standards set out in the regulations,

(b) the procedures set out in the regulations, and

(c) the assessments of similar property or businesses in the same municipality.

Matters Relating to Assessment and Taxation Regulation (AR 220/2004)

An assessment of property based on market value

(a) must be prepared using mass appraisal,

(b) must be an estimate of the value of the fee simple estate in the property, and (c) must reflect typical market conditions for properties similar to that property.

3 Any assessment prepared in accordance with the Act must be an estimate of the value of a property on July 1 of the assessment year.

6 (1) When an assessor is preparing an assessment for a parcel of land and the improvements to it, the valuation standard for the land and improvements is market value unless subsection (2) or (3) applies.

Position of the parties:

Complainant's position on approach to valuation

[6] The Complainant advised the Board early on in the hearing that they do not take issue with the City's determination that the vacant land value of the subject property is $220 per sf. Rather, the Complainant takes the position that the City was wrong in treating the subject property as vacant land and using that number to determine the assessed value of the property, because doing so resulted in an assessment that exceeds the market value of the property. The Complainant believes that the proper approach to valuation of the subject property is the income approach.

[7] In the Complainant's view, by treating the land as vacant the City used the "highest and best use" value of the subject property without first considering the test that must be applied before a highest and best use value may be considered [C1, p. 10]. The Complainant argued that the highest and best use for a property must be legally permissible, physically possible, financially feasible, and maximally productive [C1, p.10]. The Complainant's position is that by failing to go through the highest and best use analysis, the City has failed to prove that the highest and best use of the subject property is vacant land.

[8] The subject property is a retail property and has been used as such for a substantial period of time. The Complainant believes that the recent renovations and upgrades to the subject property undertaken by the owner [C1, pp. 22-23], with the intention to lease out space in the building [C1, pp. 19-20], supports their contention that the highest and best use of the subject property is its current use as a retail property. Accordingly, the Complainant argued, the subject property should be assessed on the basis of the typical retail income generated by B class stand alone retail properties in the Beltline District. The Complainant took the Board through its calculations for valuing the subject property using the income approach on Exhibit C1, page 17, and the supporting documentation found on Exhibit C1, pp. 80-112.

[9] In support of their position, the Complainant referred the Board to a number of secondary sources [C1, pp. 35-51, and 57-79], and a number of previous decisions, including CARB # 2402-2012-P, CARB 1864/2012-P, CARB 2807/2011-P, ARB 0817/2010-P, CARB 1853/2011-P, No. DL 132/05, CARB 2034/2011-P, CARB 2062/2011-P and 697604 Alberta Ltd. v. Calgary (City of), 2005 ABQB 512. The Complainant read aloud many of the highlighted passages from these sources and decisions during their presentation at the hearing, and the Board has considered them.

Respondent's position on approach to valuation

[10] The Respondent acknowledged that no highest and best use study was undertaken for the subject property prior to the 2012 assessment. That said, the Respondent argued that it did not engage in a highest and best use analysis to come to its assessment. The Respondent used a market approach to value.

[11] The Respondent noted that the while the City is legislated to derive fair and equitable assessments which reflect market value, the City is not legislated to apply any one particular approach to value to arrive at that market value [R1, p. 7]. For the subject property the Respondent used the direct sales approach to valuation using the vacant land rate of $220 per sf [R1, pp. 16 and 84-85]. The Respondent advised that this particular approach was used because the income approach to valuation of the subject property produces an assessed value below the market value of the land if it were treated as vacant.

[12] The Respondent explained that where the bare land value estimate for a property exceeds the value of the property derived using the income approach, then the bare land value represents the market value of the property. The Respondent argued that the vacant land value acts as a threshold value. If using the income approach to valuation produces a higher assessed value, the income approach will be used. However, the income approach will not be used if it produces an assessed value below the vacant land value. The Respondent argued that it is only logical that a willing seller will be hesitant to sell their income producing property for less than its bare land value [R1, p. 9]. Accordingly, it follows that a purchaser will pay more for a property than its income generating potential if the bare value of the land as a development property is higher.

[13] The Respondent provided evidence to support their determination that the bare land value for the subject property is $220 per square foot [R1, pp. 76-174]. However, the Respondent noted that this value is not in dispute because the Complainant has acknowledged that they do not take issue with the City's determination that the vacant land value of the subject property is $220 per sf.

[14] In support of their position, the Respondent referred the Board to excerpts from a number of previous decisions [R1, pp. 7-12], and supplied copies of CARB 2294/2012-P, CARB 2296/2012-P, CARB 1129/2012-P, CARB 1392/2012-P, CARB 1260/2012-P, CARB 2293/2012-P, CARB 0801-2011-P, CARB 2536/2011-P, CARB 1838/2011-P, CARB 1612-2011-P, CARB 2620-2011-P, CARB 1974/2011-P, CARB 2382/2011-P, CARB 1973/2011-P, CARB 2486/2011-P, CARB 2372/2011-P, and ARB 1191/2010-P. During their presentation the Respondent read aloud some passages from these decisions as well as some passages from the secondary sources supplied by the Complainant [C1, pp. 35-51, and 57-79], and the Board has considered them.

Board's findings and reasons for decision

[15] The Board acknowledges that there are previous Assessment Review Board decisions that both support and contradict the position taken by each party at this hearing. Although they may provide guidance, the Board is not bound by these decisions and must make its determinations based on the evidence and argument presented at this hearing, just as previous Boards did in coming to their determinations.

[16] The Respondent is bound by legislation to derive fair and equitable assessments which reflect market value. The Respondent may do so using whatever methodology is appropriate in the circumstances.

[17] The Board accepts that the Respondent did not engage in a highest and best use analysis to come to its assessment of the subject property. The Board finds that the Respondent used the direct sales approach to valuation using the vacant land rate. Based on the evidence and argument presented to the Board during the hearing, the Board accepts that the vacant land value acts as a threshold value. Where, as here, using the income approach to valuation of a property produces an assessed value below the market value of the land if it were treated as vacant, then the bare land value represents the market value of the property.

[18] The Board acknowledges that the subject property is a retail property and has been used as such for a substantial period of time. The Board also acknowledges that the subject property has undergone recent renovations and upgrades. However, the fact that a property with improvements is generating income does not automatically mean that the income approach to value must be used to determine the assessed value of that property. If that were so, even a minimal improvement that generates a small amount of income could be used to drive down the assessment of a property. This would lead to properties with minimal improvements being assessed lower than a neighbouring property sitting as vacant land. This result would be inequitable.

[19] The Respondent used the direct sales approach to valuation of the subject property using the vacant land rate of $220 per sf, a value that was not in dispute before this Board. The Board accepts that this approach was used because the income approach to valuation of the subject property produces an assessment below the market value of the land if it were treated as vacant. The Board finds that the City was correct in treating the subject property as vacant land and using the direct sales approach to determine the assessed value of the property.

[20] Because the Board's determination on the first issue is that the City was correct in treating the subject property as vacant land to determine the assessed value of the property, it is not necessary to go into the second issue. However, the Board notes that its decision CARB 72465P-2013 details the parties' positions on the issue of whether the capitalization rate applied by the City in the income approach to valuation of stand alone retail properties in the Beltline District is correct. Decision CARB 72465P-2013 also sets out the Board's findings and the reasons for its decision that that there was insufficient evidence provided by the Complainant to convince the Board to deviate from the capitalization rates of 5.50% and 5.25% applied by the City respectively to assessments of A and B quality retail properties in the Beltline District.

Board's decision:

[21] The Board confirms the assessment at $6,080,000.
